

Alice Ludlow

Rushworth Chronicle

5 December, 1890

DEATH.

LUDLOW—On the 28th of November, at her late residence, Bailieston Hotel, Bailieston, Alice, the dearly beloved daughter of Mrs Ludlow, after a lingering illness, peacefully passed away, aged 24 years.

A heart as true as ever beat
Has passed away from earth,
But she shall dwell within the hearts
Of those who knew her worth.
—May her soul rest in peace.

The funeral of Miss Ludlow, who died on Saturday last at Coy's Diggings from consumption, took place on the following Sunday, the remains being interred in the Whroo cemetery.

Deceased, who had been ailing for some time, was between 23 and 24 years of age, and well-liked by all who knew her. The funeral was conducted by Messrs Coy and Anderson, of Rushworth.

IN MEMORIAM.

LUDLOW.—In loving remembrance of our dear sister, Alice, who died on the 28th November, 1890.

Dearest sister, thou hast left us.
We thy loss most deeply feel,
But 'tis God who has bereft us,
We can all our sorrows heal.
Where the merry birds are singing,
Where the flowers gently wave,
There our loved one, dear, is sleeping
In the cold and silent grave.
