

John Poole

Rushworth Chronicle

9 November, 1894

Mr John Poole was a promising young man of only 24 years of age, and was much liked about the township [of Tatura], where he had the reputation of being very steady and industrious.

A few weeks ago he caught a cold which, aggravated subsequently by a wetting which he received, brought on the inflammation of the lungs to which he succumbed.

He was buried in Rush worth on Sunday last, a large number of people attending his funeral the whole or part of the way.