

Mr A. Johansen

Rushworth Chronicle

18 January, 1918

OBITUARY.

MR A. JOHANSEN.

Yet another Rushworth identity has passed to the great beyond. We refer to the death of Mr A. Johansen, which sad event occurred at the Mooroopna Hospital on Monday last.

Deceased was a man in the prime of life, being but 48 years of age, and the cause of his untimely demise was an affliction of the heart, brought on by the heavy work in which he had been engaged at the fire-wood mill.

He was a native of Norway, but had left those shores when a young man to try life in Australia. He married and settled down in Rushworth, where he made many friends.

Much sympathy is felt for deceased's wife and family in their great sorrow. The remains were conveyed to Rushworth and buried in the local cemetery on Wednesday, Rev. Rowell conducting the funeral service.

Mr E. Anderson had charge of the mortuary arrangements.
