17 March, 1905

The funeral of the late Mrs Edward Johnson took place on Friday afternoon last, the remains being interred in the Rushworth cemetery.

The remains were first conveyed to the Church of England, where the Rev. J. R. Walker conducted a most impressive funeral service.

A large number of sympathisers attended and accorded the deceased the last sad tribute of respect.

The members of the Forester's Lodge, of which body deceased's husband is a prominent member, attended to the number of about twenty, in mourning regalia, and acted as pall bearers.

The service at the grave was read by Rev. J. R. Walker, Mr Anderson being the undertaker.
