

Mrs Ann Lloyd

Waranga Chronicle

2 January, 1873

An inquest was held at the Whroo Mechanics Institute on Saturday, the 28th, on the body of Ann Loyd, [Lloyd] widow of the late Edwin Loyd, who was found dead in her bed on the morning of the 27th.

A post mortem examination was held by Drs McMillan and Heily, who found the immediate cause of death to be the rupture of a blood vessel on the lungs.

The deceased's death, although very sudden, was not altogether unexpected, as she has been a great sufferer for a number of years.

Whroo interment register has Ann Lloyd, buried 29 December, 1872. This is her.
