

Thomas Dearman

Mclvor Times and Rodney Advertiser

22 January, 1869

MR. DEARMAN.--It was stated on Tuesday last, at Heathcote, that Mr. Dearman, the Revenue Inspector, was in a dying state at Rushworth. A message was sent to Mrs. Dearman, informing her that Dr. Heily had but little hopes of his recovery, as he was suffering from a most virulent attack of inflammation of the bowels.

His local friends have been most anxious to hear how he is getting on there. Fears were somewhat allayed on Wednesday, by the receipt of the intelligence that he had taken a favourable turn.

Mclvor Times and Rodney Advertiser

29 January, 1869

DEATH OF MR. DEARMAN. - About one o'clock on Friday morning, Mr. Thomas Dearman died at Rushworth, after a short illness extending over a day or two only.

He was suffering from inflammation of the lungs, and so severe was the attack that Dr. Heily, who attended him, saw there was no chance of saving his life some time before life expired.

Mr. Dearman leaves a wife and two children to lament his loss.

Mr. Dearman was the Revenue Inspector for Waranga Shire Council.

The Argus

1 February, 1869

DEARMAN.—On the 21st ult., at Rushworth, Mr. Thomas Dearman, late revenue inspector for the Waranga Shire Council, of inflammation of the lungs, after a few days' illness, deeply regretted by his friends. Manchester papers please copy.

There is clearly confusion as to the location of the inflammation.