

Thomas Fitzpatrick

Waranga Chronicle

19 February, 1886

Mr Thomas Fitzpatrick's friends will be sorry to learn that he expired at his residence, Rushworth, after a short illness on Monday last.

What makes the event more melancholy is the fact that he was only married eight weeks since to Miss E. Darby, and great sympathy is expressed for her in her early bereavement.

The remains, which were interred in the local cemetery on Tuesday, were followed to their last resting place by a large number of schoolfellows and others.

Dr Heily, who attended him, gives the cause of death as being typhoid fever.

Mrs Phillips, as usual, gave a wreath, which was placed on the coffin.
